Digital Wave Adds Two Directors of Photography to Roster

Portland, OR, September 18, 2007 – Local production company Digital Wave recently added two cameramen to its roster: Hunter Richards and Perry Drake. “We’re excited to add two such talented photographers to our team. Hunter and Perry each bring their own set of skills and strengths to Digital Wave and we look forward to working with them on current and future projects,” says Digital Wave President Wayne Paige.

Hunter Richards specializes in HD cinematography, lighting, and tabletop photography. Through various music videos and multimedia advertising projects, he has demonstrated his HD photography skills to many happy clients. Hunter’s background also includes time lapse photography as well as working as a colorist. His skills create the big-budget "Hollywood" look while working within realistic budgets. You can view samples of his work at: www.digitalwave.tv/hunter.html.

Perry Drake brings over 25 years of experience as a Camera Operator to Digital Wave. Perry has a diverse background as a photographer that includes work as a successful steadicam operator. He is extremely creative in his approach to visual storytelling and is experienced in documentary, live sports and commercial production. You can view samples of Perry’s work at: <http://www.digitalwave.tv/perry.html>.
